

This proposal is unnecessary. Without spending thousands of dollars modifying transponders, pilots can simply whisper "Transponder seven five zero zero" and their flight/N-number on the radio. We believe that inadvertant actuation of this feature would cause far more problems than it would solve. In the case of smaller general aviation transponders used in many charter and regional turboprops, the cost of the mod would far exceed the cost of the transponder.